student loans. Additionally, the Colorado commission on higher education (commission) administers the nursing faculty fellowship program, which funds fellowships for persons employed in a nursing school teaching position.

The bill retains the authority of collegeinvest to administer remaining obligations under the current nursing teacher loan forgiveness program, eliminates the authority of collegeinvest to enter into any new loan repayment obligations under the nursing teacher loan forgiveness program, repeals the nursing faculty fellowship program, and expands the health professional loan repayment program, known as the Colorado health service corps, which is administered by the primary care office (office) in the department of public health and environment, to allow health care professional faculty members to obtain loan repayment through the Colorado health service corps.

The bill retains $132,000 of the balance in the nursing teacher loan forgiveness fund for purposes of paying outstanding loan repayment obligations and transfers the remaining balance in the nursing teacher loan forgiveness fund to the general fund. Additionally, starting July 1, 2011, $250,000 of the second tier of tobacco settlement moneys are annually allocated to the Colorado health service corps fund, and the current allocation to the short-term grants for innovative health program grant fund is reduced by a corresponding amount.
