Summary of Legislation

The bill makes the following changes within the Department of Human Services (DHS):

- creates the Office of Early Childhood (the office) and transfers several programs from within the DHS and other agencies into the newly created office; and
- creates the Division of Youth and Community Development within the DHS and transfers the Tony Grampas Youth Services Program and related initiatives from the Department of Public Health and Environment (DPHE) to this new division.

The following programs are moved to the Office of Early Childhood within the DHS:

- the Child Care Program, including child care licensing and the Child Care Assistance Program;
- Early Intervention Services for children with developmental disabilities age 0 to 2 (Part C services); and
- the Promoting Safe and Stable Families program.

The following programs are moved from the DPHE to Office of Early Childhood in the DHS:

- the Family Resource Center Program;
- the Colorado Children's Trust Fund and its board; and
- the Nurse Home Visitor Program.

Other programs may also be transferred to the office by executive order. For example, this analysis assumes that the Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis, and Treatment Program would be transferred to the office from the Department of Health Care Policy and Financing (DHCPF).

The Office of Early Childhood is required to coordinate with the various state and local agencies providing early childhood services, review funding for early childhood programs, develop performance measures, and other duties. The office is required to develop a state plan on the provision of services to pregnant women, children age 0 to 8, and their families, and to present the plan to the Early Childhood Leadership Commission, the executive director of the DHS, and the Early Childhood and School Readiness Commission for review and comment on or before January 31, 2013. After making any necessary revisions, the office is to present the state plan to the State Board of Human Services for approval. The state plan is to be reviewed and updated every two years.

State Expenditures

The bill is expected to result in a minimal increase in total costs in the DHS beginning in FY 2012-13, as well as one-time costs associated with transferring the various programs to the newly created office. At this time, no additional funding is required beyond the transfer of funding into the DHS from other agencies that currently house the various early childhood programs that will be consolidated. These costs are discussed below and transferred program costs are shown in Table 1.

Office director. At a minimum, the bill will require the creation of a director position for the Office of Early Childhood, which will increase costs compared with the existing staffing mix in the various programs to be transferred into the DHS. It is assumed that this position can be created within the existing appropriations transferred to the office.

State plan. The office will be required to develop the state plan for early learning. This analysis assumes that similar planning functions occur throughout the various programs to be transferred and that the improved coordination and centralization in the development of the state plan will not result in significant new costs. Therefore, no additional appropriation is required.

Relocation costs. The DHS may have one-time costs associated with transferring the various programs and staff into the newly created office and the Division of Youth and Community Development. These costs will include new employee ID cards, letterhead, and other such items, as well as the time and costs of physically relocating staff and rearranging offices. These costs are assumed to be minimal and can be accomplished within existing appropriations.

Transferred programs. The DHS will have increased costs to operate the various programs in the newly created office and division, but these costs are offset by a reduction in costs in the DPHE and DHCPF. No net change in costs to operate the various programs is anticipated. The costs of programs transferred to the new office and division in the DHS are described in Table 1.

State Appropriations

The bill requires the following appropriations in FY 2012-13:

- an increase of $23,311,190 and 12.0 FTE to the DHS;
- a decrease of $20,808,911 and 10.0 FTE from the DPHE; and
- a decrease of 2,502,279 and 2.0 FTE from the DHCPF and a corresponding increase in transfers to the DHS.

More detail on these appropriations transferring funding between departments is shown in Tables 2 through 4.
