Summary of Legislation

Under current law, to obtain a concealed carry permit, a person must demonstrate competence with a handgun. Competence can be demonstrated by various methods, including the completion of a handgun training class. This bill clarifies that a handgun training class, for the purposes of satisfying the requirements of obtaining a concealed carry permit, must not offer the entire course online or at any location other than where the certified instructor provides the course. The bill takes effect upon signature of the Governor, or upon becoming law without his signature.
