Joint Budget Committee. The state is currently engaged in arbitration with participating manufacturers to the tobacco litigation settlement to determine whether:

- ! The participating manufacturers' alleged loss of market share has resulted from the failure of the state to diligently enforce state laws related to nonparticipating manufacturers as required by the tobacco litigation master settlement agreement; and
- ! All or any portion of disputed payments of tobacco litigation settlement moneys already made to the state or placed into escrow should be refunded to the participating manufacturers.

If an arbitration panel rules against the state, one or more payments of tobacco litigation settlement moneys to be made to the state are likely to be reduced in order to effectuate the refund of disputed payments.

If one or more tobacco litigation settlement payments are reduced, it may be necessary or advisable to use general fund moneys to backfill tobacco litigation settlement moneys lost to tobacco settlement programs. Because there is no current statutory authority to use general fund moneys in this manner, if the general assembly is not in session when such a ruling is made, it may not be possible to accomplish the backfill quickly enough to allow the tobacco litigation settlement programs to meet critical state obligations and to begin reducing program expenditures in an orderly manner. To address this difficulty, the bill provides limited authorization to the governor to order up to $40 million of general fund moneys to be transferred from the general fund to the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund if an arbitration panel rules against the state while the general assembly is not in session.

1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:
