Dear Senators and Representatives:

With the enactment of SB10-212, only one mechanism for refunding state surplus revenues with a threshold amount remains, the earned income tax credit.

Although the State Controller has certified that there were no state surplus revenues for FY 2012-13, statutes require me to advise you of the new surplus threshold amount that, given the existence of a refundable surplus, would trigger the distribution of surplus revenues through the earned income tax credit.

As required by statutes, the threshold amount is adjusted "to reflect the rate of growth of Colorado personal income for the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which such adjustment is made." Attachment A reports the estimated rate of growth in Colorado personal income between calendar year 2011 and calendar year 2012 and the resulting adjusted threshold amount for the earned income tax credit.

Additionally, §39-22-627(2), C.R.S., which was enacted from the passage of HB10-1002 requires me to determine, based on the State Controller's certification of surplus revenues, whether the income tax rate should be temporarily reduced from 4.63 percent to 4.5 percent. Given that there were no state surplus revenues to be refunded, the temporary reduction will not go into effect for income tax year 2013. Using total income tax revenues from the September 2013 Legislative Council Staff revenue forecast, it was estimated that income tax revenues for income tax year 2013 would have been $194.9 million less if the state had a temporary rate reduction.

Sincerely,
